“The 10-year framework should draw on valuable aspects of such experiences as the Marrakech Process, the Strategic Approach to International Chemicals Management and national cleaner production centres. They will use a mix of policies and engage all stakeholders: governments, business, consumers and other major groups.

Programmes are expected to deliver capacity building and technical support as necessary/requested at all levels: regional, sub-regional, national and local.

Identification of key partners interested in co-leading the research and stock taking.

We hope the programme will be the channel for the continuation of the UN Decade of Education for Sustainable Development (DESD, 2005-2014) for SCP related topics. The 2014 World Conference on ESD in Nagoya will offer a great opportunity to engage more actors in the programme.
- Identifying key partners interested in co-leading the research and stock taking.

- Initial research and stock taking has started through the Advocacy Committee of UNEP-SBCI (Sustainable Building and Climate Initiative), including identification of tools and strategies to support implementation of sector specific policies, and to identify building sector components of national and regional SCP strategies.

- Will also include the work of the UNEP-SBCI Task Force on Supply Chains which is ‘mapping’ and identifying priorities, actors, relationships and potential green interventions in the building sector supply chain.
