UNEP provides support to national governments, especially in the developing world, to participate in international negotiations, to fulfil their obligations under international agreements, and to develop institutions and formulate and enact legislation to protect the environment.

UNEP works to develop policy guidelines for addressing major environmental issues, such as the increasing scarcity of fresh water, the degradation of the marine environment and the pollution of the atmosphere.

UNEP has also initiated a ministerial-level intergovernmental process to strengthen environmental governance and reinvigorate global commitment to sustainable development.
